Perjury and Hypocrisy.

In the "History of Civilization," Buckle tells how the State may encourage the people to commit perjury and to become hypocrites. He says:

"Thus, during many centuries, every government thought it was its bounden duty to encourage religious truth and disourage religious error. The mischief this has produced is incalculable. Putting aside all other considerations, it is enough to mention its two leading consequences, which are, the increase of hypocrisy and the increase of perjury.
The increase of hypocrisy is the inevitable result of connecting any description of penalty with the profession of particular opinions. Whatever may be the case with individuals, it is certain that the majority of men find an extreme difficulty in long resisting constant temptation.
And when the temptation comes to them in the shape of honor and emolument, they are too often ready to profess the dominant opinions, and abandon, not indeed their belief, but the external marks by which that belief is made public. Every man who takes this step is a hypocrite; and every government which encourages this step to be taken is an abettor of hypocrisy and a creator of hypocrites. Well, therefore, may we say that when a government holds out as a bait, that those who profess certain opinions shall enjoy certain privileges, it plays the parts of the tempter of old, and, like the evil one, basely offers the good things of this world to him who will change his worship and deny his faith. At the same time, and as a part of this system, the increase of perjury has accompanied the increase of hypocrisy. For legislators, plainly seeing that proselytes thus obtained could not be relied upon, have met the danger by the most extraordinary precautions; and compelling men to confirm their belief by repeated oaths, have thus sought to protect the old creed against the new converts. It is this suspicion as to the motives of others which has given rise to oaths of every kind and in every direction. In England even the boy at college is forced to swear about matters which he cannot understand, and which far riper minds are unable to master. If he afterwards goes into parliament, he must again swear about his religion; and at nearly every stage of political life he must take fresh oaths; the solemnity of which is often strangely contrasted with the trivial functions to which they are the prelude. A solemn adoration of the Diety being thus made at every turn, it has happened, as might have been expected, that oaths, enjoined as a matter of course, have at length degenerated into a matter of form. What is lightly taken is easily broken. And the best observers of English society—observers, too, whose characters are very different, and who hold the most opposite opinions—are all agreed on this, that perjury habitually practiced in England, and of which government is the immediate creator, is so general that it has become a source of national corruption, has diminished the value of human testimony, and shaken the confidence which men naturally place in the word of their fellow creatures.

LITTLE Eddie was having his hair combed by his mother and he grumbled at the operation. "Why, Eddie, you shouldn't make such a fuss, I don't when my hair is combed." "Yes, but your hair ain't hitched to your head like mine."

"WHERE ARE YOU GOING, MY LITTLE MAN?" "TO SCHOOL." "YOU LEARN TO READ?" "NO." "TO COUNT?" "NO."
"WHAT DO YOU DO?" "I WAIT FOR SCHOOL TO LET OUT."

An American Beauty.

One of the most striking members of the American colony in Paris is the Countess de Trobriand, the wife of General de Trobriand, who won a distinguished reputation in the Union army during the civil war. The Countess de Trobriand was a Miss Mary Jones, of New York, the daughter of the founder and President of the Chemical Bank.
Her salon in Paris has been for many years the resort of distinguished Americans, French, Russian, Italian Representatives, literary, artistic, and diplomatic persons. With the exception, perhaps, of Madame Edmond Adam, the Countess gathers around her more people of distinction than any other lady who receives in Paris. Probably there is not another apartment in Paris so filled with curiosities from all parts of the world. The salon is like fairy land. Filled with exquisite Chinese cabinets, mirrors, chandelier, clock and candlesticks of Dresden china, etc.; its walls inlaid with panels of mother-of-pearl; sofas and chairs, representing all periods, and covered with the rarest embroideries and tapestries, it presents a tout ensemble at once dazzling by its beauty and surprising from its harmony. The other rooms are equally beautiful—the dining-room with chairs and table of marqueterie and sideboards of same, gleaming with silver, lighted by a superb carved brass chandelier; the countess' own room hung with India shawls and furnished with elaborately carved oak, and Japanese toilet articles; the room of a favorite daughter finished with rosewood and gold satin, with amber-glass toilet articles; the boudoir hung with tapestry framed in pink and gold, with Louis Quinze chairs and consoles; every corner of the department displaying artistic treasures—all these are more beautiful than words can tell. We must not forget the ante-chamber, with its fire-place and grand old andirons; the screen, six feet high, which, unfolded, represents, by six oil paintings, the early Kings of France; the superb mirrors in curved frames; the Louis Quatorze chairs—but words fail to give a description of all the beauties of this marvelous house.

The Myth of the Phoenix.

The phoenix was a fabulous bird that was said to live in Arabia, and of which Herodotus gives the following account in that part of his work which treats on Egypt: "The phoenix is another sacred bird, which I have never seen except in effigy. He rarely appears in Egypt; only once in 500 years, immediately after the death of his father, as the Heliopolitans affirm. If the painters describe him truly, his feathers represent a mixture of crimson and gold; and he resembles the eagle in outline and size. They affirm that he contrives the following thing, which to me is not credible. They say that he comes from Arabia, and bringing his father inclosed in myrrh, buries him in the Temple of the Sun, and that he brings him in the following manner: First, he molds a great quantity of myrrh into the shape of an egg as he is well able to carry;
and, after having tried the weight, he hollows out the egg, and puts his parent into it, and stops up with some more myrrh the hole through which he had introduced the body, so that the weight is the same as before; he then carries the whole mass to the Temple of the Sun in Egypt. Such is the account they give of the phoenix." The popular version is that, on arriving at the age of 500 years, the phoenix built a funeral pile, of wood and aromatic gums, and lighting it by the fanning of his wings, was consumed to ashes, out of which arose a new phoenix.

Crop Prospects for 1882.

Reports of the condition and promise of the crop throughout the Union have been obtained from thirty-seven states and four territories and one hundred and twenty different places. The New York Sun in reference to the outlook for the present year says: The sum of all is that the spring outlook for 1882 is almost uniformly hopeful. An abundant harvest is generally indicative. Floods and frosts, and the slow coming of good growing weather, have retarded the work of the farmer in some regions, and in a few have done damage which now seems to be irreparable; but the acreage under cultivation has much increased, and in the great majority of cases a larger yield than ever before is expected.

Winter wheat will give an increased yield in nearly every State except Indiana, Ohio, New York, and Pennsylvania. The frost has done both it and barley much injury in Indiana, but the loss will probably be partially or entirely made up by the gain in corn and oats. The damage to winter wheat will prevent more than an average crop in Ohio; but that is likely to be gathered, because of the increased acreage. There, too, a greater yield of other crops promises to make up for the deficiency in wheat, if any there shall be. More land than last year is in oats and potatoes. Though a short crop of winter wheat is indicated in New York, more oats than usual have been planted, and the dairy interest is extending in the State. Wheat is no longer the main stay of our farmers, and any slight reverses the crop may suffer are of much less account than formerly. Less than average returns of wheat are expected in Pennsylvania, despite an increased acreage; but corn, oats, potatoes, and tobacco have been more extensively planted than last year.

In the grain States west of the Mississippi, however, a greatly increased yield of wheat is expected, and this flattering promise far more than offsets any falling off indicated in the States we have just named. A much larger acreage of winter wheat than last year will soon be harvested in Arkansas. There is one-third more land in wheat in Colorado, with promise of a yield correspondingly large. A gain of one quarter in both wheat and oats is expected in Dakota. In Kansas, a State which makes great strides every year, an increased acreage of from thirty to one hundred per cent. in wheat and the other grains is reported. Fifteen percent. more land in wheat is the story from Minnesota; winter wheat unusually advanced and acreage much increased, from Missouri; larger acreage and better average than last year, from Oregon; a greater yield, from Texas; ten per cent. more acreage and crop in prime condition, from Utah; more land sown and a larger yield expected, from Washington Territory; and the same report is from Wyoming.

Everywhere better crops of corn are expected. An averaged crop of cotton is promised. Generally the sugar cane is in the most healthful condition. Tobacco looks well. The weather has not been good for hay hereabouts or elsewhere; but the next three or four weeks may work a happy change. More potatoes than usual have been planted, the drought of last year having put up their prices so that the farmers who had them to sell were great gainers, and a small importation took place.

The worst outlook is for fruit. The frost has done much damage to the peach trees throughout the peach regions of the East, and the small fruits generally have suffered correspondingly. This, however, is the apple-bearing year, and there is nothing to indicate that we shall not have our customary plenty. And as the other fruits, especially peaches, it may be said that unfavorable reports usually come to us at the opening of spring. But the season has not been favorable to them. Severe frosts have occurred too late for their welfare.

As a whole, it will be seen that we are likely to have good crops this year, exceeding even those unparalleled ones gathered during the two years previous to 1881, when a drought such as occurs only once or twice in a generation parched the fields and brought so much of the labor of the farmer to naught.

Sunday morning the residence of John Brett, in San Jose, Cal., was partially destroyed by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Brett were not awakened by the flames until too late to escape. The bodies were recovered as soon as the fire was extinguished, but changed beyond recognition.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Loions Instruments and electuris do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Collinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. William's Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

Skin Diseases Cured

BY DR. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cures as if by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Sent by mail on receipt of price, fifty cents.

For blind, bleeding, itching or ulcerated piles, Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is a sure cure. Price $1, by mail. For sale by George T. Wood, druggist.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the ills, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, flatulence, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, serotulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, flatulence, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen to cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible indents. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without relining.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, juddling, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

CAPT. HARVEY HUGHES, well-known in Brown and Adams counties, Ohio, last week fell off a bridge near Princeton, in that state, and was killed.

Two hundred and fifty pounds of freight brought from Covington to this city costs twenty-five cents. This is about as low a rate as any reasonable person can expect.

LITTLE NELLIE, an interesting daughter of Dr. J. S. Cassidy, of Covington, died on the 29th of April, after a brief illness, at the age of five years, two months and two weeks.

THERE were one hundred and sixteen cases of smallpox reported at the Cincinnati Health Office for the past week. Total death, fifty-five. Number of cases under treatment, two hundred ninety-six.

MANY of the saloons at Cincinnati, last Sunday, kept the front doors closed, admitting customers quietly in the rear. At some of the gardens a plan was adopted of selling pretzels and giving a glass of beer to each customer.

We send this issue of the DAILY BULLETIN to Germantown, Mayslick, Washington, Mt. Gilead, Orangeburg, Tolesboro, and other neighboring towns where we hope to see it generally read hereafter. It will be published each day in time to send it to our readers in the country by the stage lines. The subscription price is twenty-five cents a month or three dollars a year.

Business in Maysville Half a Century Ago.

Mr. Harry Wood has left on our table a copy of the Maysville Monitor printed in 1834. Among the advertisers we notice the names of Robert Brotherton, proprietor of the Maysville Brewery; E. D. Boone, wholesale tin manufacturer; Mrs. Goddard, proprietor of the Washington Hotel; Orlando Parker, proprietor of the Eagle Hotel; Cockrell and Darrough, proprietors of the "William Tell" coffee house; John Gettys, proprietor of the Exchange Coffee House. Boone Mitchell advertises that he "manufactures furniture and does all the kinks of cabinet carving." Simon Nelson announces that he will give any description of goods in his store at retail prices for Maysville and Lexington turnpike scrip." Woodruff & Maloy, proprietors of the City Coffee House say of their drinkables:

If those who doubt their goodness will but stand at our counter for an hour and observe with what gusto the connoisseurs in these matters smack their lips after drinking, all their doubts must vanish into thin air. To the members of the temperance societies who indulge in thin potations, W & M can at all times offer the very best wine, ale, beer and crab-elder.

"Give him strong drink, until herink, That's sinking in despair;
And liquor's gild to the bluid,
That's pressed w' grief an' care;
There let him bouse, an' deep carouse
Wi' bumpers flowing o'er Till he forgets his loves or debts
An' minds his griefs no more."

Solomon's proverbs, XXII. 6.7.

The Famous Equestrienne.

Here are a few press notices of Miss Nellie Burke, the famous equestrienne, who is to ride a ten-mile running race over the Maysville course, for $1,000 a side, on the 16th inst. She is the champion lady rider of the world, and has ridden the fastest ten-mile race on record, having made that distance in the wonderfully short time of nineteen minutes and thirty-six seconds. The feat was accomplished at Austin, Tex.

Des Moines Register: Miss Burke has made the fastest ten-mile time on record, and is conceded to be the most dashing equestrienne in the United States.

Turf, Field and Farm: Miss Burke presents the finest appearance in the saddle of any lady rider we have ever seen. She sits upright and easy, shows no fatigue, makes quick changes, and uses great judgment.

Omaha Bee: Miss Burke is undoubtedly the best lady rider in the world.

Atchison Patriot: Miss Burke handles her horses better and makes quicker changes than any lady we have yet seen in the saddle.

Omaha Republican: If any ladies thinks they can beat Omaha's favorite equestrienne, they can get all the wealth of Nebraska.

Sedalia Democrat, Lincoln Journal and Omaha Telegram, all say, without doubt, Miss Burke is the best female rider in the world.

Ask for National Export.

No beverage has gained such a widespread reputation as Moerlein's Lager Beer, which is bottled by the National Lager Beer Bottling Company, of Cincinnati, O. Nothing but the best old lager beer manufactured is bottled by the "National," and this accounts for the great reputation it has acquired for putting up a good article. The company ships beer to all parts of the globe, and every one proclaim it as the beverage of the nation. The company makes it their special business to bottle only genuine Export Lager Beer, and, having inaugurated the plan, it proposes to so continue the original intention that not only here, but in all parts of the country, the reputation of the beer will be kept up to the highest altitude. m15 LEXINGTON imported 719 bales of hemp and exported 1,443 bales, during the month of March. The 716 imported bales were sent from adjoining counties.

The bill providing for the erection of a public building at Frankfort to cost $100,000 has been signed by the President.

THE early wheat in Lewis county, on the Eastern slopes especially, has been considerably damaged by the cold weather. The early corn will probably all have to be replanted.

Limestone Flour Mill Sold.

The Limestone Flour Mill was sold at public sale to-day to settle the estate of the late D. E. Roberts, and was bought by the Pearce Brothers for $30,000.

MR. JOHN MAHER, formerly of this city, was stricken with paralysis at Nicholasville, Ky., and died Saturday evening. The remains were brought here last night for burial. The funeral took place this morning from St. Patrick's Church.

A SEWER pipe twenty-four inches in diameter to connect with the old tan-yard sewer at the mouth of Dugan's alley is being laid by Mr. T. J. Curley, who has been awarded the contract. He is doing the work in a satisfactory manner.

THE necessities of life are higher in price in Maysville than for many years past, and men of limited incomes find it a difficult matter to make both ends meet. The best flour is $8.50 a barrel, butter, 30 cents a pound, lard, 15 cents, eggs, 15 cents, and everything else in proportion.

The son of a farmer living on Kinnecomic Creek in Lewis county, during the recent cyclone was struck in the head by a flying timber and has since been in a deranged condition. He imagines the storm is still going on and no amount of argument can remove the impression from his mind.

BROTHER McGARVEY, of the Christian church, "goes for" Brother Barnes, in the Georgetown Times. He says: "I am strongly inclined to the opinion that, if he lives a few years longer, he will die in a lunatic asylum, and that those who are being led by him now will wake up to the fact that they have followed a madman."

MANY persons are under the impression that the Fair Association and the Trotting Club are the same. This is an error. They are different companies and are acting under separate charters. The Trotting Club is governed by the rules of the Fair Company, but further than this, it has nothing whatever to do with the Fair Association.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mr. Harlan Teager, of Lewis county, dropped in to see us to-day.

Mr. F. C. Petry has returned from a business trip through Ohio.

Mr. H. M. Perry, of Natural Bridge, N. Y., is in Maysville with a view of locating here.

Mrs. Lucy Lape, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Wm. Cobb, has returned to her home at Cincinnati.

Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge arrived last night. He is engaged in the turnpike case and will make the closing argument.

THE DAILY BULLETIN during the week of the races which begin on the 16th inst., will be issued at ten o'clock in the morning, and as a very large edition will be printed, advertisers will find it a most valuable medium for reaching the ears of the people who will be here. Every branch of business in the city should be represented in our columns on this occasion. Cards of one inch for the five days that the races continue will cost 90 cents each; two inches $1.30 three inches $1.70 four inches $2.20 half column $3.40 one column $5. It is hardly necessary to say that these are the lowest rates ever offered by any paper printed in Maysville. The advertisements will be printed in at least 5,000 papers.

ADVERTISEMENTS for our court day edition should be handed in as early as possible. A want costs only ten cents, an inch 50 cents, two inches 70 cents, three inches 90 cents, four inches $1.20, half column $1.80 and one column $3.00.

BUSINESS has opened briskly in Maysville this week. Many country buyers who have been in the habit of going to Cincinnati this season, have been deterred from doing so by the increase of small pox there and have placed their orders with our merchants. They have benefit ed themselves by doing so.

COUNTY POINTS.

GAS POINT.

Edward Thomas left last Monday for Shelbyville, Mo., where he will spend the summer.

Mrs. Cynthia Berry, an aged lady of Bridgeville, who has been the sick list for some time past, is slowly recovering.

GUITEAU NERVOUS.

Anxious About His Prospects—A Commutation of Sentence Not Desired.

"Guiteau is somewhat nervous to-day," said Warden Crocker, in Washington on Tuesday. "Whenever any mention is made of court proceedings now he acts like a badly scared individual, as you can learn for yourself." Thus saying the warden pushed open the heavy oaken door and the grinning Guiteau in a locked cell was soon engaged in conversation. He began immediately after exchanging the customary greeting by saying:

"I suppose you know that my case will be argued the 8th of next month. What do you think of my prospects? I don't want a commutation of sentence. If they do anything at all they must set me free, in order that I can travel and lecture. I don't want to be cooped up in a prison all my days."

He would have continued in this strain, but was interrupted to learn whether he had seen Mrs. Scoville lately.

"Not since Friday," he replied. "I understand that she left the city and won't bother me again. I need all my time now to get points ready for the court and cannot be worried by relatives."

The prisoner turned to his table, and picking up a bundle of photographs, endeavored to make a sale and seemed somewhat piqued at being unsuccessful. His cell is now ornamented with several chromos and other articles, and a handsome silk-fringed Easter card occupied a conspicuous position on his table. During visiting hours, which are from one till four o'clock in the afternoon, the prisoner is locked in his cell, and is not allowed to come out except for a half-hour's exercise.

Give Us a Rest.

Look around the reporter's table. There never was a more brilliant set of young men than that found in journalism. What becomes of them? You might as well ask for a dead mole. You don't find many of them occupying the managing editor's desks of your great dailies. Why? They rarely live to be old enough for that. They wear out their lives in a work that affords little rest. "Give us a rest." I can't tell you how you can rest, but you must rest or die. An American forty is at most a wreck. We waste the best of our lives by burning our life-candle at both ends. Our amusement's themselves are a worry. We go away on a summering, hang up and down the country, and obtain the advantages of what? Rest—of a fashionable season. I am not entirely given over to too-toism. I always associate an aesthete with laziness, and a lazy man doesn't know what rest means. I am glad I am away from the ladies, but really I don't admire a Queen Anne chair. I know it is high art, but just think of one hundred and seventy-five pounds of muscular Christianity resting in a spindle-shanked Queen Anne chair! Then I can't say that I am in love with those new chandeliers made in imitation of a tallow dip, with a gutter of snuff run down the sides! Then there are those narrow-necked jars in a Japanese cabinet, so frail that one is afraid of enjoying a hearty laugh for fear of breaking up a hundred dollars' worth of high art. Do you know I enjoy seeing a man lying on the sofa! I know it's rough on the sofa, but it's the best thing in the world for the man. I often wonder when I get into a parlor filled with all the juncos of aestheticism, what it was all for. I like a parlor where children can turn somersaults without fear of what is coming after. High art! Somebody once told me that the covering of Scribner's Monthly was a specimen of it. I remarked that I couldn't make out just which way the snake was going. He was inclined to be offended, but all I could imagine of the design was a reminder of a snake crawling backward or forward, or, perhaps, a dish of vermicelli soup on a piece of brown paper.

The boy that quits his public school or his college ought to be induced, or flogged, if need be, to prevent him from at once going into a business life. Let him spend his time on a farm. I don't know how it is, but in every place I've been true American labor was dying out. I went into a prayer-meeting in Maine the other day (they go to prayer-meetings in Maine yet), and they were singing "There Is Rest for the Weary," and, American-like, they place that haven of rest "beyond the Jordan." Nations have passed off the face of the earth by disregarding lesser laws than that of American restlessness.—From A. W. Tuggee's Lecture on Rest.

Some Chinese Manners and Customs.

It has been well said that the everyday customs and manners of the Chinese are diametrically opposed to what we are familiar with. In a country where, as Wingrove Cook says, "the roses have no fragrance and the women no petticoats; where the laborer has no Sabbath, and the Magistrate no sense of honor; where the needle points to the South, and the sign of being puzzled is to scratch the antipodes of the head; where the place of honor is on the left hand, and the seat of intelligence is in the stomach; where to take off your hat is an insolent gesture, and to wear white garments is to put yourself in mourning," it would be difficult perhaps to find many customs which are common with us. It is stated that, as the needle of the Chinese compass points toward the South, so also every house in China, which is at all pretensions, faces the same way, as well as the state seats in all the reception rooms. The Chinese at home, as abroad for the most part, are industrious and frugal; the poorer classes live almost entirely on rice and vegetables, sometimes adding small pieces of fish and meat. They are accustomed to living in crowded apartments, and their clothing is usually but a small item in the way of expenditure; although China is vast as to territory, there are many who live, near the large cities, in boats on the neighboring rivers and lakes.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.
